

Untitled Document

Carla Bruin from Klipkop writes:

Happily driving along Lynnwood Road on a Saturday afternoon, one never suspects so

I looked back, and saw the name of the company on the truck. Unfortunately what I didn't s

Just to stress the importance, let me give you the scenario that you should follow: regardless

Do not stop for any traffic. Then race after the truck, revving your engine until it sounds as if

Because once you phone the company to which you believe that the truck belongs, they are

If I do not have the truck number, as the sub-contractor would be responsible for the damage

How can it be that a company, who should be familiar with phone calls like this, does not ha

As I had not noted the truck number (which to me seems a near impossible task), the manag

Moral of this story is the following: when you see a concrete truck approach you from the op